"Press" gets new look---
How do you like it?

'The Campbell Press' in this issue changes its appearance and make-up in a major fashion.

The changes are probably the most outstanding that have been made at any one time in the 78 years this newspaper has been in existence.

Here is what has happened:

1. There are two sections to each edition...One is the news section and the other is the advertising portion (The Merchandiser).

2. The news will be in a tabloid section (one-half the size of a standard paper), separated from "The Merchandiser."

3. There will be no advertising in the news section.

4. Paid subscribers of "The Campbell Press" will receive both the news section and "The Merchandiser."

5. BUT the coverage of "The Merchandiser" will be greatly increased, offering the local merchant the most effective advertising medium in the area.

6. Other changes include new styling for the newspaper's "logo," reverting to the traditional "old English" type, plus a completely new design but still using the stately walnut trees at the railroad tracks.

7. The new format puts the main news section on pages 2 and 3 and leaves the front page open for unique pictorial displays. "Out on the Limb" has been moved inside.

The staff would be interested in your reaction to these changes and the others planned for the future. (Call the office, 378-9136.)

WALKING IS BETTER ON THIS SIDE

ON WAY TO PRUNEYARD

Pedestrians follow "obstacle course"

An "obstacle course" extending (from Poplar Ave. to the PruneYard) offers a challenge (as the photos illustrate) to those brave souls who like to walk.

Pedestrians on their way to the PruneYard on the north side of Campbell Avenue, after leaving the Highway 17 underpass, either must walk in the gutter or "plow" through the planting strip (still unplanted) between the gutter and then into the PruneYard parking lot.

On the south side of Campbell Avenue, the pedestrian fares a little better.

A sidewalk continues from the underpass to the traffic signals and crosswalks at Union Avenue. (A sub-standard black-topped sidewalk on the north side in the underpass ends smack-dab at a bush.)

But the pedestrian can safely cross busy Campbell Avenue via the crosswalk at Union Avenue.

However, the crosswalk ends in the gutter, giving the party on foot two choices: (1) take the gutter route or (2) through the unplanted planting strip.

Campbell High wins second Central Coast ball title

Campbell High School won the school's second straight Central Coast Section baseball championship by defeating Mitty High School 7-2 in the San Jose Municipal Stadium on Saturday night.

On Friday night, the Bucs defeated Homestead High School 6-3 while Mitty was edging Monterey 3-2.

On Friday night, Pete Fair was on the mound for Campbell and raised his season record to 12-0. He struck out four but was in trouble only a few times, although the four errors made by the Bucs made things a little tougher.

George Hahn, the Bucs catcher, wielded the big bat on Friday, accounting for three runs batted in, including a three-run homerun in the fifth. His first hit scored John McMonagle from second. Tom Guardino also smacked a homer in the fifth.

In the Saturday night game against Mitty, the Bucs collected four runs in the third to help matters.

Steve McGrody, a sophomore, went the whole route on the mound for the 7-2 win for the Bucs.

Pinch runner Mike Maniglia scored the Bucs' first run when Jim Oswald singled with the bases loaded. Singles by Tom Guardino and Ted Bertron and a wild pitch accounted for the other runs in the inning.

Tim Long, Buc left fielder, led the Campbell hitters with a 2 for 3 night.

Commissions need four

With the submission of the resignation of Fred Long, there are now three vacancies to be filled on the Planning Commission, it was reported this week.

The resignation of Hank Cary from the Parks and Recreation Commission has created a vacancy on that advisory body also.

The deadline for submitting applications for the Planning Commission is Friday, June 8. At press time, 10 applications had been filed.

The City Council will interview the applicants on Saturday, June 16, starting at 9 a.m. and plan to appoint the three commissioners at the close of the interviews.

Long, in a letter to the City Council, cited personal reasons as the basis for his resignation. The other vacancies were caused by the resignations of Carl Larson and Milt Howe.

The need for filling the vacancies on the Planning Commission was emphasized on Monday of this week when the regularly scheduled Planning Commission meeting had to be cancelled for lack of a quorum.

Matters scheduled for last Monday's agenda were continued to the next regular meeting on Monday, June 18, when it is expected that three new commissioners will be on hand.

At press time, three had applied for the Parks and Recreation seat. The deadline for filing is Monday, June 11.

IT'S GOLF TIME

Approximately 80 members or guests of the Campbell Chamber of Commerce were expected to tee-off today (Wednesday) in the fifth annual CofC invitational golf tournament at Riverside Golf Course at Coyote.

The shot-gun blast-off was set for 1 p.m. Dinner will follow the tourney. Two women golfers signed up for the tournament this year for the first time.

City employees to receive 5% cost-of-living increases

In addition to holding the first routine hearing on the 1973-74 budget, the City Council next Monday, June 11, is scheduled to approve an across-the-board 5% cost-of-living salary increase for all city employees. The Council meets at 8 p.m. in the council chambers.

The salary increase is based on the two-year agreement that went into effect last year.

The City Council is also expected to list the projects that will be financed from federal revenue-sharing funds that will be received from January 1, 1973 to June 30, 1973. The funds are estimated at $113,000.

Other items on the agenda include a recommendation from the Parks and Recreation Commission that funds derived from the sale of the old engineering building on Third Street and Grant should be used for the irrigation system at Rincon Park.

The Youth Commission has suggested that the funds be placed in reserve to finance a community center building.

A number of zone change and planned development projects that have received prior approval of the Planning Commission are also to be on the agenda.

In addition, Bell Savings at San Tomas Expressway and Campbell Avenue is appealing the denial by the Planning Commission of a free-standing pole sign for the location. The savings and loan firm wishes to convert the Freddie's Liquors sign.

UP $340,000 FROM LAST YEAR

City operating budget tops $4.8 million

Report recommends tax remain at current level

A preliminary operating budget for the City of Campbell for 1973-74 final year totalling $4.8 million was presented to the City Council this week by City Manager Bob Stephens.

The budget represents a 7.6% increase (or $342,810) over the current budget and the city manager has recommended that the present city tax for operations of $1.30 per $100 assessed valuation be retained.

The $1.30 rate includes a special 12-cent levy that has been in effect for two eyars to pay for completing and furnishing the new engineering wing at the city hall and to furnish the main portion of the city hall. In 1970, the special tax was 18-cents to complete the city hall.

In his budget message, City Manager Stephens recommends the employment of seven new full-time employees at a total cost of $80,420.

Stephens adds that requests for 14 additional employees totalling $160,110, had been submitted by department heads.

STAFF ADDITIONS

The seven additional employees include one fireman, one police officer, an engineering aide for public works, an account clerk in finance and a clerk steno in personnel, plus three part-time employees.

The budget estimates that the city's income from sales tax will hit the $1 million mark next year and the property tax for operation ($1.30) will bring in $962,000. An additional 50-cent tax (compared to 56-cents this year) will raise $370,000 for bond payment.

Sales tax income for this fiscal year (ending June 30) is expected to reach $916,500.

The budget also anticipates a 7.06% increase in assessed valuation this year within the city limits.

PUBLIC HEARINGS

Under the time table as suggested by Stephens, on next Monday, June 11, the Council will hold a public hearing on the budget and then continue it to a series of three adjourned public hearings between June 11 and June 25.

Stephens also calls attention to the recommendations of the Citizens Advisory Goals Committee and suggests that the recommendations be discussed at one of the budget hearings.

The city manager has recommended that a preliminary operating budget be adopted on June 25. The final adoption, however, will not take place until August when the final property assessment figures (including utilities) will be in.

LIBRARY - PARK

The budget lists $599,040 for construction of the new library and $234,000 for improvement of Rincon Park. The major portion of these expenditures comes from bond funds.

The public works department takes the biggest slice of the city departments, with $564,850 listcd under "design engineering" alone.

Other separate items in the public works department budget range from $1,370 for service center landscaping to $180,800 for street maintenance.

Parks are administered by the public works department and the budget states $1,900 for "parks" plus $22,350 for Campbell Park; $2,000 for Virginia Park; $2,000 for Harrison Park; $1,000 for Gomes Park and $33,350 for Rincon Park.

The budget also shows $6,690 in the public works department for landscaping the fire stations.

The police department's budget is listed at $818,830 and the fire department at $608,715.

The city manager explains also that the recommended budget denies many of the requests made by department heads. He said a total of $683,885 had been cut from their requests.

Stephens also adds that the preliminary operating budget allocates no expenditures at this stage for the federal revenue sharing funds. But the budget does provide for a minimum of $100,000 in the general fund unallocated reserve for emergencies.

Campbell woman becomes acting county librarian

Barbara J. Campbell, a member of the County Library professional staff since 1966 and assistant librarian since 1969, has been named acting County Librarian by County Executive Howard Campen.

The Campbell woman steps into the shoes of George Farrier, who retired this week after a 42-year career in librarianship including 14 years as County Librarian. The County Personnel Department will be in charge of screening and testing applicants for the position.

Miss Campbell, 35 La Paloma, graduated from the University of California at Berkeley in 1950 with an A.B. degree in public administration. She received a graduate degree in library science, a BLS, in 1951, and took additional graduate courses in librarianship there in 1952.

She worked from 1946 to 1952 at the Berkeley Public Library. This was followed by 20 months' duty as a civilian librarian at a U.S. Air Force Base in England in 1953 and 1954.

She returned to the Berkeley Library in 1954 and spent nine years there in which she rose steadily on the professional staff to the post of branch librarian. She joined the County Library here in 1966 as supervising librarian, technical services.

The local woman holds a county librarian's certificate from the State Board of Library Examiners, and she is a member of both the California and the American Library Associations.

Tom Prebil to head JayCees

Tom Prebil, a member of the Campbell JayCees since 1968, has been elected president for 1973-74, succeeding Mike Kennedy, who has been elected treasurer.

Prebil, the new president, had previously held the offices of external vice-president and state director.

Ralph Viet, also a former vice-president and director, was named state director and Mat Pickett, who previously served as secretary was named vice-president.

George Tucker, who had served previously as internal and external director, was elected secretary.

Membership in the JayCees is open to all men between the ages of 18 and 35. The club meets on the second and fourth Wednesdays each month at 41 W. Rincon.

IN LINE OF DUTY

With warm weather here, firemen at the Central Ave. fire station had the front door open last week.

The stray cat that wandered in took a direct route to the firemen's sleeping area and curled up on one of the beds.

Fireman Fred Bailey set to the task of getting the cat out of the station.

He was treated by the city physician a short time for scratches and bites to the right arm and left hand.

WIELDING THE SHOVEL---City officials participated recently in the groundbreaking ceremonies which marked the start of construction of a $1.5 million, 50,000 sq. ft. garden office complex at the southeast corner of Hamilton Avenue and Third Street, on the former Gomes Ranch and adjacent to the McKeon development.

The single story, seven-unit professional center will be called Koll Business Park and is being developed by Don Koll Co., Newport Beach, Shown at the ceremony are, from left: Hoot Gibson, president of Koll's northern division; Vice-Mayor Norm Paul; Councilman Bill Podgorsek and Mayor Dean Chamberlin.

APPRAISER MAY TAKE ANOTHER LOOK

Residents protest high assessments

Another look will be taken of at least one area in Campbell which has had an unusually high increase in assessed valuation, the appraiser of two of the areas in the county assessor's office promised this week.

However, Roger Hanson, an appraiser in the department headed by Dwight L. Mathiesen, county assessor, told The Press that the "re-appraisal" will not be made until August. Thus any changes that might take place will not affect this year's tax rolls (1973-74).

In the meantime, Hanson admitted that the assessment had been reduced for at least two properties in the section in town which apparently has shown the greatest increase. (Page -Hawthorne-Maple-Poplar-El Patio.)

The reductions have taken place since The Press, in the last issue, called attention to the huge jump in assessed valuation for properties in that particular area ("Book 287"), which lies north of Campbell Avenue, between Bascom and Winchester, extending to Stevens Creek Road.

Personnel in the assessor's office reported that many property owners have called

Outstanding performances in "Applause"

by Steve Rockwell

"Applause" current offering of the West Valley Light Opera deserves its own applause, for its production has great merit. What makes it special are the outstanding performances in the leading roles.

Armand Plato, director, is very fortunate to have Roberta Viscovich in the role of Margo Channing. She has the polish and flare needed to follow in the footsteps of the Broadway lead, Lauren Bacall, and makes the roll all her own. She has obviously established herself as one of the community's new musical comedy leading ladies.

However, she does not overshadow the performance of Jeannie Traina in the secondary role of Eve. She is able to change from the innocent to the conniving, pushy starlet who will do anything to achieve stardom. She sings well, and above all is a top notch actress in a role that is difficult to play.

In smaller roles, Norma Hughes and Patty Cutler give the musical play added professionalism. The male roles do little more than offer story content although Joseph DiMarco has many good moments as Margo's hairdresser. DiMarco gives much energy to the musical numbers, well choreographed by Barbara Valente.

The one drawback in this particular production was the set designs. The sets were too large for the stage and the audience had to wait for the changes which made the play seem long. The costumes by Jo Plato were almost totally successful and she deserves much credit since modern shows are the hardest to costume. Especially noteworthy were those costumes of Miss Viscovich and Miss Traina.

Musical Director Bill Resch and Stella Wood, choral director, deserve mention as their areas were well rehearsed.

One more word about the choreography of Barbara Valente. It is interesting to note how this woman takes nondancers and is able to give them confidence as well trained performers. Plus they had lots of fun up there.

"Applause" will play weekends through June 30. Call 356-6410 for more information.

OUT ON THE LIMB

with George Vierhus

FOR THE FIRST TIME IN MANY, MANY YEARS, THE format of "out on the limb" has been changed.

Since our arrival in this community in 1956, "out on the limb" has appeared on the left-hand column of the front page and single column in width.

In this issue "limb" has gone inside and is set two-column wide.

There is no guarantee, of course, that the change in style will improve the quality of this column.

But, at least, it has a different outward appearance.

EACH TIME THERE HAS BEEN A SAN JOSE CITY Council election, we have felt like volunteering to conduct an orientation course for the council candidates so that they would learn where the city boundaries are.

Invariably a billboard or poster sign pops up within the city limits of Campbell blaring the qualifications of some candidate for the San Jose council and urging the voters to cast their ballots for him/her.

We recognize, of course, that it is that particular candidate's money that is being wasted and it shouldn't disturb us.

But it does, just the same.

We have always felt that one of the primary qualifications of a candidate should be to know the geographical boundaries of the area that he and/or she was seeking to represent.

Of course, it is being brought home ot us very forcibly lately that a candidate need not necessarily know or condone the actions of his campaign workers.

In light of what has occurred on the national level, we suppose a San Jose City council candidate, whose billboard appears within the city limits of Campbell, should not be criticized, if he did not know what was going on or where to draw the line.

But for the record, a San Jose council candidate is violating a Campbell city ordinance when he places his political sign in Campbell.

The candidate is courteously requested by some city staff person to take the sign down.

And he does, most of the time.

But the election is generally over by then.

BACK IN 1956 -- WE TOOK OVER THIS NEWSPAPER from Lester E. Lafferty, who is now retired and resides in Ashland, Oregon.

A couple of weeks ago, "The Daily Tidings," of Ashland did a feature story on Les under the head "Ex-newsman, 77, now running for student editor."

A two-column picture of Lafferty appeared with the story.

But let us quote from the feature article:

".....The 77-year-old Lafferty, who retired in Ashland last year with his wife, Gladys, did-and still does-have a nose for news. He's spent most of his life in California and a good portion of those years either editing, publishing, or pounding a typewriter.

"Among other celebrities, he once interviewed Franklin Delano Roosevelt, is noteworthy.

"BUT FROM A LOCAL STANDPOINT, WHAT MAKES Lafferty stand out is that he's the oldest student at Southern Oregon College and one of three students vying for next year's editorship of the student newspaper - The Siskiyou.

"Lafferty just has to be the oldest student ever to apply for the position. He's about 50 years older than either Jim Douglas or John Danforth, the other two students who applied for editor.

"Attending SOC the past two terms under a senior citizen program, Lafferty last week decided to make use of all those years of experience and submitted an application for the editorship.

"He notes, however, that if he does become involved with The Siskiyou, he'd rather it was in some sort of an advisory position. At 77, Lafferty says, you don't get around as well as you used to.

"What really prompted the senior newsman to consider getting back into journalism is an experience he had in 1945.

"WORLD WAR II WAS JUST OVER AND LAFFERTY was editor and publisher of the San Carlos Enquirer in San Mateo County, California. He bought the paper in 1937 after a paper he owned in Tehama County was flooded out by the Sacramento River.

"With the war over, veterans were returning and Lafferty became involved in training a number of veterans to enter the journalism profession. The federal government paid half of the students' wages and the newspaper the other half.

"What Lafferty would really like to do is to get a similar program started in the local area.

"Whether or not Lafferty does become editor of The Siskiyou, he certainly has a long list of journalistic achievements to his credit..."

THE FEATURE STORY DESCRIBED SOME OF THE EXperiences Les has had in journalism, including: "...After leaving San Carlos in 1949, Lafferty did public relations and advertising in San Mateo and in 1953 became editor and publisher of The Campbell Press in Santa Clara County.

"Lafferty retired from the newspaper business in 1956 and went into real estate, but up until he came to Ashland last year, he held an interest in the Santa Clara County weekly....."

....."The move to Ashland, says Lafferty, followed about 10 years of trips to this area to visit his wife's daughter Lolly and her husband Don Skillman, who runs a local real estate firm.

"Lafferty and his wife say they like the Ashland area. 'I think Ashland has some of the nicest people and neighbors you can find,' says Lafferty. 'Not like in the cities down there.' "

We thought you would enjoy, as we did, this news article about a former publisher of The Campbell Press.....

If the time ever comes that we can retire, maybe we should look into this higher education thing.

We also enjoyed the note (or epilogue) from Les which accompanied the news story:

"George: I withdrew in favor of either of two younger applicants...but the committee wants me to prepare half dozen talks on newspaper experience for 1973-74 term and/or others of their preference.

"Working on Veteran Bureau at Washington to see if they'll let me give two-year apprenticeship training for Guild membership as I did after WW II while on San Carlos Enquirer, either through college or Daily Tidings staff.

"How do you quit this damn newspaper business once you get the ink in your blood? Les Lafferty."

Shucks, Les, how come you are asking us?

Wow, if you don't know by this time.....

Editorial

Assessment

It appears unlikely that The Campbell Press, through the "exposure" of the astronomical increases in assessed valuation of some properties in this area, will have forced any reductions in the increases.

On the other hand, by calling attention to the assessment hike (a 30% jump in some instances from the previous year), we feel we have focused attention on a sensitive issue that needs further "exposure."

In too many instances, the property owner has received the "notification of assessment" postcard from the county assessor, glanced at it and then filed it away and forgotten about it.

Although The Press may not have reduced anyone's assessment by emphasizing the huge assessment increases, we think people may have become more aware of the effect these lethal cards, that arrive in May, can have on one's economy.

We contend, of course, that a 20-30% increase in a property owner's tax assessment in one year is outrageous and grossly unfair.

We recognize also that the law allows the assessor to raise the assessed valuation of properties until 25% of the market of "full cash value" is reached.

Thus, if the property owner will not sell for the "full cash value" as listed on the card because it is less than what can be obtained on the market, the assessor's office feels the assessment is not out of line.

And it apparently makes no difference to the assessor's office that, in order to get to this "market value," the assessed valuation of the property had to be increased from 15 to 30%.

But it makes a heck of a lot of difference to the taxpayer.

We argue that there is something wrong with the system that allows one county department to make such an emphatic impact on the individual taxpayer in one year.

We also maintain that the system is wrong in being "so sloppy" as not to have adjusted the increases over the past years on a gradual basis.

There is another point to remember also:

If a tax-levying body (county, city, schools, etc.) would increase taxes in one year by 25%, there would be screams and protests all over the place.

So the assessor does it instead.

City tax

The Campbell Press recognizes that the City of Campbell is responsible for only a small portion of the overall property tax bill... something like 12%.

But we are closer to the fiscal situation in the city than we are to any other tax-levying agency.

We also have available past files of this newspaper which report the annual struggle at budget and tax-setting time.

The preliminary budget for the city has now been drafted and until August, when the final budget will be adopted and tax rate set, the City Council will be digging, exploring and deciding.

One of the items that we have focused on in the city for the past three years has been a "special" tax that has been levied for specific purposes.

In 1970-71, this tax was 18 cents to complete the city hall; in 1971-72, it was 12 cents to furnish the city hall, and in 1972-73, it was 12-cents to complete and furnish the engineering wing of the city hall.

"The 'city hall' tax will be needed only for two years, the councilmen have indicated,"...(Aug. 26, 1970, issue of The Press).

We submit that three years have past (not just two). The projects for which the special tax was levied have been completed.

We suggest that the special 12-cent tax should be removed this year.

And, if necessary, a special tax for a specific purpose could be levied.

West Valley Sports

BASEBALL

An enviable baseball record was set this year by West Valley College.

The Vikings won the league championship, placed two players on the first two all-northern California teams, put five players on the first all-Camino Norte conference team and one on the second squad, tied the league record for the best won-loss mark at 17-4 and ended up ranked eighth in California among large junior colleges.

Gene Litle (Mitty), Valley's pitching ace, led the team all season long. He was selected the most valuable player in the CNC.

Litle posted a 9-3 record and a 1.62 earned run average.

Catcher Jeff Lauro (Bellarmine), first sacker Gale Asti (Prospect), third baseman Mitch Vierra (Westmont) and shortstop Bob Nickeson (Prospect) all were named to the first all-CNC team.

The Vike's leading hitter of the year was Mike Martin (Branham), who ended league play at '385. Martin was named to the second all-CNC outfield.

Litle and Nickeson were also named All-NorCal performers.

Litle picked up a first team spot on the pitching staff and Nickeson was named to the second infield.

West Valley ended their successful 1973 season on a losing note recently when they fell to Consumnes in the northern California tourney.

The Vikes lost their tourney opener to Consumnes 4-1, came back to knock off the College of the Canyons but dropped their next decision 13-5 to Consumnes.

West Valley had to settle for a NorCal third at the tourney.

Litle pitched the tourney opener for West Valley.

The West Valley college golfers tied for the Camino Norte conference championship with Santa Rosa, both teams holding 13-3 records.

The Vikings ended third in the NorCal event behind Modesto and San Jose city college. And 61 strokes behind WVC was Santa Rosa.

John Zetterquist (Del Mar), Frank Panetta (Saratoga) and Jim Dow (Del Mar) led WVC. Zetterquist ended with a 73-78 performance and Panetta logged a 75-76. Dow finished the first 18 at 78 and came back with a 73.

Todd Styron (Camden) finished the 36 holes at 155 and Jim Burke (Los Gatos) fired a 160. Rick Scott (Buchser) ended with a 167.

Campbell members of the San Francisco Giants Boosters of Northern California are getting set for their June 29 "follow the team" trip to Atlanta and Cincinnati.

The week long program includes four games with the Atlanta Braves and three with the Cincinnati Reds. The group returns to San Francisco July 6.

Stadium club visits, a trip to the Atlanta "underground" and a July 4 excursion by paddle wheel steamer on the Ohio river supplement the baseball program.

This is the Boosters' fourth annual visit to Atlanta and the second year for Cincinnati. The group travels by air and has its own chartered "Booster Bus" on hand for local transportation in each city.

For additional information about this and other Booster Club trips, call club president Allan Murray at 456-6633.

SNAKE DAYS---This fellow is an adult Pacific Rattlesnake. State and County rangers warn that both adult and baby snakes are now out of hibernation and slithering through foothill meadows and park areas. The adults almost always give a warning rattle before biting, but the equally dangerous baby snakes do not have fully developed rattles yet or the adult markings. Moral: If you meet a snake, be careful!

County chief warns baby rattlers bite

This is a very peculiar time of the year. You might call it "Snake Days."

The weather is warming up, which encourages more people to get out and enjoy the outdoors. However, it is important to remember that many animals and snakes that were in hibernation during the winter are coming out too.

Among these are the Pacific Rattlesnakes, which according to the State Department of Fish and Game (SDFG), are the only poisonous snakes that populate this area.

David Culbertson, County superintendent of parks, says he feels obligated to warn people of the danger of handling the baby rattlers that have just come out of hibernation and are not easily detected.

Culbertson says some people come in contact with these baby snakes in the County parks, not realizing they're rattlesnakes, and take needless chances handling them. He states there have been at least two recent reports of people being bitten on the fingers by baby rattlers in this county.

The baby snakes don't have rattles and the coloration is different from adults. They are about 10 inches long and have only one small horny button on the tip of their tails. However, they can be just as deadly, Culbertson said.

The babies have venom, short fangs, and are dangerous from birth. In fact they are more warlike than adult snakes. Although unable to make a rattling sound they throw themselves into a fine defensive pose and strike repeatedly when disturbed, according to a (SDFG) report.

"Rattlesnake bites are not usually fatal", says Culbertson, "unless the victim is a young child or somebody in poor health." However, he added, "severe sickness will usually result."

"People and snakes are starting to take advantage of warm weather. It seems that later in the summer the snakes become more cautious when more distinct patterns and trails are reestablished, and it is less probable for people to encounter snakes.

"Most snakes in this area are harmless and really more beneficial because they help control the rodent population. However, at this time of year people should be particularly careful."

Library sets puppet show

Three lively puppet shows will introduce the summer season of activities at the Campbell Public Library on Tuesday, June 12 at 4 p.m.

After the kick-off program special events for school-aged children will take place each Tuesday at 2 p.m.

Doll making, cartoons, puppet making, movies and a sports program featuring the San Jose Bees baseball team, are part of the schedule this year.

Children are also invited to join the Summer Reading Club, according to children's librarian Dolly Larvick.

Storytime for pre-schoolers and primary grades will be continued throughout the summer at 10 a.m. Wednesday mornings. Occasional films will be included with the usual fare of traditional and contemporary tales.

The library is located at the corner of Campbell and Central Avenues. For more information contact Miss Larvick at 378-8122.

4H CLUB

EL SERENO 4-H

by Michelle Lauer

Our May meeting was called to order at 7:30 p.m. on May 9 at Immanuel Lutheran Church. Randy Cone told us how many more things we had to complete for our goals this year. Then we had some committee reports:

Mary Ann Lahan on Project Tour; Michelle Lauer on Fund Raising; Tanya Jefferson on Park Clean-up; Chris Barbour on Fair Booth; Michelle Lauer on Mothers' Tea.

Then Jim Compton gave a project report on Electricity and Ann Collins gave one on foods. Janet Snouse and Clare Carlson on how to preserve a snake. This demonstration was the very first demonstration in the whole club. They won ribbons at Presentation Day and Regional Field Day.

At this meeting we elected new officers, they are: Rick Zurlo, president; Glen Green, vice-president; Kim Barbour, secretary; Ron Drake, treasurer; Deena Rossi, reporter; Don Duffin and Mary Ann Lahan are recreation leaders; Ann Collins is historian, Mary Madison is corresponding secretary; Paul Compton, supplies chairman and Mark Flores, club set-up.

On May 5 and 6 there was a Santa Clara County A.R.B.A. rabbit show, and everyone in our rabbit project went home with at least a third place. Randy Cone won best of show. He is the first 4-H member ever to have A.R.B.A. rotating trophy. He said on the trophy he was going to write, "Randy Cone El Sereno 4-H."

The winners of the baking contest were: Girls, Michelle Lauer and Susan Rice; boys: Bill Lauer.

CAMPBELL SPEECH AND LEARNING CENTER

by Pat Safford

The room echoes with shouts of joy as the youngsters race out into the sunshine. Their favorite time of the school day has just arrived, playtime.

Only by speaking to these little people could you recognize that this is more than the usual pre-school program. The youngsters all suffer from some form of learning disability. Most have trouble forming the appropriate sounds to convey a message or answer a question.

The Speech and Learning Center, 106 E. Campbell Ave., presently holds their preschool program at Our Saviors Lutheran Church on North Winchester Boulevard.

Plans to convert a nearby residence into facilities for the youngsters met approval from city planners recently. The extensive renovation plans now hinge on getting the necessary financing to carry out the project. Should this fail, according to Director John F. Font, Ph.D., they will be looking for another site in Campbell.

FROM 2 TO 92

The East Campbell Avenue center presently helps individuals from as young as two years of age up to one gentleman in his 90's. "A very spry 90," says Font.

Adult patients range from those who have suffered strokes and cancer victims who have had their larnyx removed to adult stutterers.

Young patients are seen for a wide range of speech and learning disorders including those with language problems, cleft palates, severe articulation difficulties, hearing problems, brain damaged youngsters and those with emotional problems that hamper their learning.

The center boasts some 12 staff members and four consultants. Font, who taught speech pathology and audiology at Syracuse University in New York, arrived in California to serve as the director of the Speech and Hearing Clinic at Stanford University.

Disillusioned by some of the aspects of university life, Font decided to open his own center. The present facility is owned by a corporation with Font serving as director.

REFERRALS

Most patients are referred to the center by physicians, Font said, although some parents, recognizing serious problems in their child's development, contact the center directly.

Detection of learning disabilities, Font said, is unfortunately still quite arbitrary. While more and more school districts are developing special programs for students with special needs, there are still not enough. The expense of operating these programs was cited by Font as the main reason for the lack.

SCREENING

While Font feels there is some justification for some type of a screening program to detect disability in youngsters, he also feels the public won't support any massive screening program because of the expense. Some estimates set the number of children affected by speech, hearing and learning disorders at some 15%.

FIRST LINE

Font characterized the medical profession as the first line in helping detect these disorders. While most are very competent in their field "I think its impossible for every single person to know every little thing," Font said. "All too often a doctor will say 'he'll grow out of it'."

The length of treatment at the center ranges from as short as two or three months to several years. The three most important factors in treatment of the young and old alike, Font said, are a good relationship with therapists, willingness and cooperation from home. There is much that families can do to help, he explained.

NO ACCIDENT

It was no accident that Campbell was selected as the site of the center, according to the director. Campbell is a small close-knit community, Font said, that retains an identity of its own. Already feeling at home here, Font said he visited city hall last week. "They remembered me and said hello," he related smiling, "That wouldn't happen in New York."

Summer wilderness program planned by Campbell club

WHITE WATER--West Valley Hiking Club white water crew hits white water during a trip down the Rogue River in Oregon. The Hiking Club this year is offering 9-day white water raft trips on the Rogue River in Southern Oregon at a cost of $95 including transportation. Pictured are Mel Malinowski, club guide and Mark Buford from Pioneer High (front of boat).

"The West Valley Hiking Club of Campbell will offer the largest summer wilderness program ever offered by the Club beginning June 20 and running through August," indicated Club Director, Leon Berthiaume.

Twenty-eight extended trips are offered ranging from the Sierras of California to the Canadian Coast Range of British Columbia.

"Trips are open to all young people in the area of junior high, high school and college age," stated Berthiaume. The majority of the kids who go with us are 15 and 16, he indicated.

The cost of the trips range between $49 for the ten day Sierra trips through $139 for the 18 day trips in Washington and Canada. The Rogue River raft trips are $95. These costs include transportation, food and most equipment. The Hiking Club operates four different buses and has a large experienced leadership staff.

The Hiking Club is a grass roots community organization operated by people in the community. The Club receives no funds from outside sources.

Individuals interested in finding out more about the summer program should call or write the Club for a package of information. The Club is located at 409 E. Hamilton, Campbell and the phone is 374-3311. Office hours are between 3 and 6, Monday through Friday.

Letters to the Editor

PRIORITIES

Dear George:

Your evaluation of the priorities as rated by the goals committee May 30, is excellent. As a member of the steering committee I was in attendance at almost every meeting. While the recommendation of the steering committee for adoption was unanimous, there was certainly no unanimous opinion regarding priorities. These could have been debated for several sessions.

I agree with you that these recommendations are not a mandate to the City Council to accept everything recommended or in the order of priority of the committee. I certainly trust our fine City Council to use good judgment as to the things beneficial to most citizens of the city.

I further believe that every effort should be made to lower the tax rate to a level that will be an incentive to those who own property outside the city limits to annex. The increased valuation will give the city added taxes. This will result in a benefit to the entire city.

Sincerely,
H.A. Vollenweider

Assessment

in or appeared in person protesting the increases. However, most of the protests have not been allowed to date.

County Assessor Mathiesen re-emphasized this week that property owners, who feel that their assessments are out-of-line, should call his office.

He noted that the emergency number that was listed last week has been dropped. Property owners should call 299-2401, Mathiesen said.

The assessor explained that there was always the possibility that a clerical error had been made. In addition, it was also possible that the assessment was made on improper information.

Mathiesen, however, suggested that reductions would probably be rare and his office would have to have facts relating to market conditions to make changes other than clerical mistakes.

The assessor's office can make changes in the assessment rolls until June 15.

The property owner, however, Mathiesen points out, still has the right to appeal to the "assessment appeals board" appointed by the supervisors.

Assessment appeal application blanks can be obtained from the clerk of the board of supervisors and hearings on the applications will be held after September 15.

Mathiesen suggested that those property owners appealing should be prepared to offer proof based on market conditions that the assessments were out-of-line.

Hanson, who appraised two sections in town, in reporting that he planned to "re-appraise" the Maple-Poplar-El Patio, etc., sector in Campbell in August, admitted that it was possible that certain conditions affecting the market value may not have been taken into consideration.

Some of the property owners in the area have maintained that the "full cash value" listed on the assessment notification cards exceeds the price they could get for their houses.

However, Hanson claimed his main criteria for the valuations was based on eight sales made since 1970 of houses in the area.

Coeds varsity hopefuls

VARSITY TRY-OUTS---Two Westmont High School coeds are attending football practice each afternoon. The two, Jeanne Orr and Barbara Jollay, are both freshmen at the school. According to Jeanne, she had originally talked eight girls into trying out for the frosh-soph team but the others dropped out leaving only Barbara. Asked what she thought the chances were that she and Jeanne would make the team, Barbara shrugged, "very slim." (See front page for another photo.)

MYSTERY COMEDY---Campbell resident Shirley Rosenberg, left, is shown with Joseph Schiller and Vera Thompson, in a scene from the mystery comedy "Exit the Body," which opens June 8 at the Triton Museum of Art, Santa Clara.

Appearing in the character study of a real estate lady, in the Santa Clara Players offering of the mystery farce "Exit the Body," by Fred Carmicheal, will be Campbell resident Shirley Rosenberg. Well known to Valley audiences for her performances in "Children's Hour," "Fiddler On the Roof" and other plays, Shirley Rosenberg has also appeared in the Palo Alto Community Theatre, and in the King Dodo Playhouse, and she works at the West Valley College Counseling Center.

BITES DUST

The left turn signal at the intersection of San Tomas Expressway and West Campbell Avenue was severed last Wednesday after being struck by an automobile.

SPRING CROP

In two separate incidents last week Campbell police confiscated "bumper" crops of marijuana.

Thirty small plants were found growing under a wire mesh screen along the creek adjacent to Highway 17, north of Camden Avenue. Also collected at the scene was a shovel and empty bag of fertilizer.

In the second incident, a Campbell youth was cited after marijuana plants were found growing in his yard.
